Dear Editor
Journal of Positive School Psychology presents
(JPSP)

We have read and use scientific articles published in JPSP.

The performance of the JPSP was excellent, and the published article helped us conduct research and write scientific articles.

I am Dudang Gojali represent other authors, Lecturer from UIN Sunan Gunung Djati Bandung

We have completed a scientific article entitled "Innovation In Pre-Marital Counseling For Family Sakinah In The Covid 19 Era."

We hope this article can be published in the JPSP because there are interesting findings in the scientific article that can become new treasures in science, especially in medicine sciences.

I am willing to go through the review process following JPSP standards.

Best Regards,

Dudang Gojali

JPSP values your team contribution, and I look forward to receiving your revised team manuscript.

Editor and Reviewer comments:

Reviewer 1 and Reviewer 2:

1. Provide information about the research sample, including the number of participants, age, gender, and other relevant characteristics.
2. Provide a detailed description of the methods used to select studies for inclusion in the meta-analysis, including the criteria used for inclusion and exclusion.
3. Include information about the measures of well-being and mental health used in the studies, as well as the instruments used to measure these variables.
4. Provide a more detailed description of the types of positive psychology interventions used, including examples and explanations of each intervention.
5. Provide a more detailed description of the duration and frequency of the interventions provided to participants, and explain whether there were differences in intervention effectiveness based on duration and frequency.
6. Conduct subgroup analyses to evaluate whether the effectiveness of positive psychology interventions varies by participant characteristics, such as age, gender, and other relevant characteristics.
7. Clarify the definition and measurement of effect sizes used in the meta-analysis.
8. Identify and explain potential sources of bias in the studies included in the meta-analysis, such as publication bias or selection bias.
9. Discuss the limitations of the meta-analysis, such as the limitations of the studies included in the meta-analysis.
10. Discuss the implications of the findings of this study and provide recommendations for future research, such as more comprehensive and in-depth positive psychology intervention studies targeting adolescent populations in Iran.

I hope you can make improvements as soon as possible and send the revised article again via this email.

Dear

Dudang Gojali, et al.
UIN Sunan Gunung Djati Bandung

Thank you for your team efforts to make improvements to your article team.

Based on the Reviewers' considerations, the article has, at some point increased.

However, your team have to improve on a few more points. Hopefully, your team are willing to do it.

Please follow the following revision instructions:

Reviewer 1 and Reviewer 2:

1. Provide a more detailed explanation regarding the differences in outcomes between the positive psychology intervention group and the control group in the studies included in the meta-analysis.
2. Clarify whether the effectiveness of positive psychology interventions is dependent on the type of well-being or mental health measured, such as anxiety or depression.
3. Elaborate on the method used to combine effect sizes from the studies included in the meta-analysis, such as whether a fixed or random-effects model was used.
4. Identify the factors that contribute to the heterogeneity between the outcomes of the studies included in the meta-analysis, such as participant characteristics or differences in the interventions provided.
5. Include information about the quality of the studies included in the meta-analysis, such as their risk of bias.
6. Provide an explanation for choosing a meta-analysis as a method to combine outcomes from different studies, and discuss the advantages and limitations of this approach.
7. Add more information on the influence of cultural and social contexts on the effectiveness of positive psychology interventions, especially in different countries such as Iran.
8. Discuss the implications of the findings in this study for the development of more effective and practical positive psychology interventions to enhance the well-being and mental health of adolescents.

Articles that have been revised and please send it back via this email.
