Dear Editor

International Journal of Science and Society (IJSOC)

I read and use scientific articles published in IJSOC.

The performance of the IJSOC was excellent, and the published article helped me conduct research and write scientific reports.

I am Encup Supriatna, Lecturer from UIN Sunan Gunung Djati Bandung, Indonesia

I have completed a scientific article entitled "Alfred Schutz's Phenomenological Analysis of Community Social Behavior in Responding to Cooking Oil Scarcity."

I hope this article can be published in the IJSOC because exciting findings in the scientific report can become new treasures in science, especially in social sciences.

I am willing to go through the review process following IJSOC standards.

Best Regards,

Editor and Reviewer comments:

Reviewer #1:

1. The abstract needs to be expanded to provide a clearer picture of the research objectives, methods used, main findings, and contribution of this research to existing knowledge. This will help readers understand the substance of the article better.
2. In more detail, explain the selection of participants in this study. Why is the number of participants involved only five people? How can the sampling method ensure the phenomenological analysis's representativeness and diversity of perspectives?
3. Review the keywords used. Do the keywords presented accurately reflect the research focus and the main findings discussed? Consider using keywords that are more specific and relevant to the research context.
4. In explaining the panic buying phenomenon being analyzed, it is necessary to provide concrete examples and direct quotes from the participants interviewed. This will strengthen the findings' validity and clarify the community's perspectives.
5. This study uses a qualitative method with a phenomenological framework approach. It is necessary to provide a more detailed explanation of the phenomenological analysis steps used in this study. How does the writer apply this framework to explore the experience and meaning of the observed phenomena?

I hope you can make improvements as soon as possible and send the revised article again via this email.

Dear

Encup Supriatna
UIN Sunan Gunung Djati Bandung, Indonesia

Thank you for your efforts to make improvements to your article.
Based on the Reviewers' considerations, the article has, at some point, increased.
However, you have to improve on a few more points. Hopefully, you are willing to do it.
Please follow the following revision instructions:

#Reviewer 2:

1. In the abstract, adding a sentence or two explaining the practical or theoretical implications of the research findings is better. This will help the reader understand the importance of this research in a wider context.
2. Explain in more detail the reasons for choosing Alfred Schutz as the theoretical basis for this research. What makes Schutz's phenomenological perspective relevant in analyzing social behavior in the face of scarcity of cooking oil? Also, include a review of the literature supporting the use of this conceptual framework.
3. In obtaining primary data through interviews, explain the questions asked to the participants in more detail. Ensure the questions are closely related to the phenomenon under study and allow participants to express their experiences and perceptions properly.
4. Review the section that describes the results of the analysis. Provide clearer information about the main themes or categories from the phenomenological analysis. Also, explain how these themes reflect and reveal the characteristics of social behavior in the face of scarcity of cooking oil.
5. It is necessary to explain in more detail the limitations of the research. Include information about the constraints encountered during the research, such as limited time, resources, or participant access. This will provide a better context for interpreting research results and increase readers' confidence in the validity of the findings.

Articles that have been revised and please send them back via this email.
